

The COVID-19 Vaccine

Stockbridge-Munsee Health and Wellness Center Medical Director Dr. Micheal Lundin

Many are curious about the COVID-19 vaccine, so I wanted to take a moment to share some important information with you.

We know a COVID vaccine is on the way, and that it will be about 95% effective. This means that the vaccine decreases the risk of getting sick with COVID-19 by about 95%.

We also know that the vaccine will require 2 shots given about 3-4 weeks apart, and that the most common side effects are mild soreness and redness in the area where someone received the injection, fatigue, body aches, or headache. These are similar side effects to the flu shot.

I have heard some people express concerns about the safety of the COVID-19 vaccine, but in over 75,000 people who participated in the Pfizer and Moderna vaccine studies, no one reported any serious adverse side effects. These studies included people of different ages and races.

So, even if you are one of the first people to get the vaccine in our community, there have been thousands of generous people who have been a part of testing the vaccine before it came to us. I hope that makes everyone more confident about the vaccine. It certainly makes me feel confident offering it to my patients.

Another thing patients often wonder about is how the vaccine works. I try my best to explain that because the vaccine doesn't contain whole virus, it cannot cause COVID-19. Rather, the vaccine consists of small chunks of the virus. When your body sees these small chunks, it makes antibodies that attack COVID if it gets in your system later.

We encourage you to consider getting the vaccine. It is safe, effective, and it is one way we can all protect ourselves, our families, and our community. If you'd like to do some research on your own to learn more about how vaccines are developed, go to CDC's website, and start your search there. There is a lot of misinformation circling around right now about the COVID vaccine. Make sure the websites you seek out information from are reputable. CDC and WHO websites are 2 reputable sites that I and other medical professionals go to for solid, reliable COVID vaccine information. Also, check out the tribe's COVID-19 page for up-to-date information about our community's COVID protocols and guidelines.

I hope you and your families have a wonderful holiday season, and that you continue to practice the important COVID safety measures, such as: wearing a mask, social distancing, washing your hands frequently, and not gathering with people outside of your household.

Happy Holidays! I am so grateful for everyone working hard to keep our community safe.

In health and healing,

Dr. Micheal Lundin

Medical Director

Stockbridge-Munsee Health and Wellness Center

From the Office of the Tribal President

Increasing numbers of COVID-19 in our surrounding counties has resulted in many hospitals in our area to be at or near capacity. As we head in to this holiday season, it is more important than ever to follow the simple COVID-19 prevention guidelines of: wearing a mask, keeping our distance, washing our hand frequently, and not gathering with people outside of our household.

These are trying times, but fortunately we are a resilient people. And we know one of our community's strengths is that we take care of one another, especially during hard times.

We know COVID is 100% preventable. The issue though is that it is easy to let our guard down.

In the past few months, we have learned that about 50% of COVID infections occur when someone has zero symptoms. So, in other words someone can look and feel healthy, but can still spread an infection that could put another person in the hospital.

That is why I am asking this of you- if you have plans to get together with friends or family members outside of your household and your only option is gathering indoors, please change your plans. Stay safe and stay home.

I know that we are a community that loves to get together, and this time is especially challenging for many of us because we can't do that. But that doesn't mean we can't make an effort to connect with one another. This year, I encourage you to give the gift of your presence, rather than presents, to loved ones. Consider planning virtual dinners, group phone calls, and game or movie nights to make the holidays special.

Your presence, through checking in on your family, friends, and neighbors (although not a material thing), is one of the best gifts you can give. Please make sure to reach out and give your loved ones a call and show them that you care.

We all hold the power to stop COVID-19 in its tracks, but we need to do it together. Let's take care of our Elders and our most vulnerable. We can all do our part and come together to keep everyone safe, and show our love to our family, friends, and neighbors with our presence.

Thank you, I hope you have a joyful and safe holiday season!

John Quinney's Powderhorn Returns Home

By Heather Bruegl & Bonney Hartley

On November 19th, a very important piece of our cultural heritage made its way home. Sachem John Quinney's powderhorn was returned to our community to the Arvid E. Miller Memorial Library Museum from its 80-year resting place at the Oshkosh Public Museum.

The powderhorn was repatriated under the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act

(NAGPRA) due to Stockbridge-Munsee's claim that the powderhorn is an object meeting the definition of Stockbridge-Munsee asserts that the powderhorn is an object meeting the definition of "cultural patrimony." This means that it is an object which has "ongoing historical, traditional, or cultural importance central to the Native American group or culture itself."

The powderhorn object, though it can be read as a utilitarian item of its time, is an example of how objects can evolve to have multi-layered meanings and ongoing significance to a community. Being a key heirloom of tribal sachem John Quinney, the powderhorn represents a socio-political symbol of Mohican leadership.

Quinney is among those who wrote and signed petitions, memorials, land transactions and treaties to negotiate with the US Government and mediate on the Mohican people's behalf. One of his victories was the repeal of the Congressional Act of 1843, which had made Stockbridge people citizens. The repeal meant that Stockbridge-Munsee's were able to maintain our own government and customs. Quinney noted in his diary, "We Stockbridges are Indians again."

As a leader and thinker, he used his skills to keep the Stockbridge-Munsee together during very fragile times, always invoking pride in his Native American lineage and Mohican cultural identity. He is much beloved and revered in our Tribe's historical memory from the words in his July 4, 1854 address in Reidsville, New York, where he traveled from Wisconsin back to ancestral Mohican territory to deliver remarks which must have startled the attendees.

significance of the powderhorn as an item representing leadership to our people, as well as questioning the Oshkosh Museum's right of possession due to the way the powderhorn came to their collection—from a collector who gave it on loan in 1934, without a clear documentation of how he came into possession of it. The Oshkosh Museum agreed with this determination and enthusiastically supported the return.

The item first came to the Library-Museum in August of 2019 on loan from the Oshkosh Public Museum to be part of the Open House that was held during Pow Wow weekend. The powderhorn, as well as other items on loan were on display and members of the community and public at large were able to come in and view the item. In February of 2020 the powderhorn was returned to OPM where it was made known that the SMC Historical Preservation office was going to try to repatriate it. The request was met extremely well and even through the pandemic, both sides were able to work towards the return of the item.

On November 19th the item was finally welcomed home in a small, Covid-19 friendly, ceremony. Earlier in the day Historic Preservation Manager Bonney Hartley, Oshkosh Public Museum Registrar Emily Rock and Curator of Collections Anna Cannizzo recorded a presentation about the repatriation including what is NAGPRA and the process by which the powderhorn was brought home. Later in the day the homecoming took place and was attended by members of the Stockbridge Munsee Community Cultural Affairs Department including Director Heather Bruegl, Library/Museum Specialist Yvette Malone and Language Manger Molly Miller as well as representatives from the Oshkosh Public Museum. Stockbridge Munsee Community Tribal President Shannon Holsey was present to receive the powderhorn and offer words of gratitude. Council members Joe Miller and Brock Schreiber in attendance as well.

The entire homecoming ceremony was broadcasted live on the Arvid E. Miller Library Museum and Cultural Affairs Department Facebook page as well as the Oshkosh Public Museums Facebook page. Due to Covid-19 restrictions, the public was not allowed to the ceremony, but can view it on Facebook. The Arvid E. Miller Memorial Library and Museum is hoping that once the pandemic passes to host an open house where the community can come in and welcome the powderhorn home.

Pauline Blanche McCartan

Pauline Blanche McCartan, age 87, of Bowler, passed away on Saturday, November 21, 2020 at the Ella Besaw Center in the Town of Bartelme. She was born on May 11, 1933, to the late Stephen and Thelma (Davids) Putnam in the Town of Red Springs. Pauline was united in marriage to John Ralph McCartan, on August 27, 1966, until his passing on January 10, 2010. She had a solid work ethic and spent over 30 years as a Senior Customer Service Recorder for Honeywell in Milwaukee. Before Parkinson's disease made it difficult and then impossible, being active was a large part of her life; she loved going to the YMCA to swim and shoot baskets, she enjoyed daily walks, making homemade bread, and she was always up for a game of driveway badminton! Scrabble, Spinner and Wii Bowling were also favorite pastimes. She enjoyed traveling and accompanied her daughter Jean and sisters on various vacations. Her sweet tooth was legendary, and anything chocolaty was always welcome. She had a fun sense of humor that evoked laughter! Pauline knew heaven was her future home and she seemed ready to go there. In the meantime, she has left a void. She will be deeply missed.

Pauline is survived by her children: Kathy (Bill) Polzin of Milwaukee, Jean (Mark) Heinze of West Bend, and Jay McCartan of Milwaukee; and grandchildren: William, Matthew, Benjamin, Alyssa, Daniel, Abigail, Amy and Jathen; three sisters: Betty, Marie (Jack) and Judy (Butch) and one brother, Joseph (Rosie).

Pauline was preceded in death by her first husband, James Abresch, her second husband John McCartan, her parents, Steven and Thelma, and four sisters, Ramona Harder, Beverly White, Beryl Schwann, and Virginia Putnam.

Graveside services for Pauline were held on November 28, 2020 at Stockbridge Indian Burial Grounds, Town of Bartelme, with Pastor Paul Johnson Officiating. In lieu of flowers, memorials in Pauline's name may be directed to the Michael J. Fox Foundation.

Important COVID-19 Community Resources

To ensure community members have access to high-quality up-to-date information on COVID-19, the tribe has refreshed several of its COVID-19 resources:

COVID-19 Webpage

Visit the tribe's updated COVID-19 webpage. There you will find responses to common FAQs such as:

"Can you get COVID-19 twice?"
"Are the new COVID vaccines safe?"

"What should I do if I spent time with someone who tested positive?"

Additionally, you will find fact sheets, as well as informative videos created by Stockbridge-Munsee community members, medical professionals, and tribal leadership.

Community Helpline

Call the COVID-19 Community Helpline at 1-833-679-0136. This toll-free helpline is for Stockbridge-Munsee community members who have general questions about COVID-19 services or guidelines but aren't sure who to ask.

The helpline is staffed M-F during normal business hours. When you call, a Stockbridge-

Munsee staff person will respond to your concerns and direct you to the appropriate community contact. Because this helpline is not monitored 24/7, if it's an emergency or you are in crisis, call 911.

Stockbridge-Munsee Community YouTube Page
Finally, spend some time on the tribe's updated YouTube page. There you will find "Ask Auntie Misty" videos, "Ask Dr. Lundin" videos, Updates from President Holsey, and Updates from the Wellness Center.

If you subscribe to our page, you will be the first to know when important videos are released.
