

Martin Van Buren National Historic Site in Kinderhook, NY is now officially open for applications. They are especially excited at the thought of that intern being a member of the Stockbridge-Munsee Community as this individual will serve as the project lead as part of a highly collaborative team of NPS archeologists, park staff, and the Stockbridge-Munsee Community THPO to:

- complete a pedestrian survey and a GIS survey in order to create a GIS database of known archeological sites within the park
- Engage with and present project results to the Stockbridge-Munsee TC and THPO as well as park staff and the Northeast Archeological Resource Program (NARP)
- Learn about the National Historic Preservation Act (NHPA), Sect. 106 compliance, and the consultation process

The official listing is here, ACE CRDIP: Archeology Survey- Martin Van Buren National Historic Site position announcement should you know of anyone that may be interested and or share it through the education department. The intern would receive weekly pay, housing reimbursement, and I think really important, direct hiring status for fed jobs. I should say that they are also really flexible in terms of applicant's background experience as the Park Service has an entire department that will work to train the intern in the field as work is conducted. Seems like a great opportunity to work out here, learning beneficial experiential skillsets should they be interested in a career in archaeology/historic preservation, etc., and would work really closely with our office.
